The terraced houses called Maj Townhouses are a good example of modern housing construction in the settlement of Veli Maj in Poreč.

Ten houses in a row, five on each side, seem like a world unto themselves, and with a clever architectural solution allow for a high level of privacy with a warm sense of neighborhood. Each house has a garden and parking space, and six houses have sea views. The nearest beach is 950 m away and the center of Porec is 2 km away. The houses were literally created for enjoyment - enjoying with the family, enjoying with the children, enjoying the company with the barbecue, enjoying life.

Each house consists of two floors and has an average of 65 square meters, with more or less square footage of the yard, depending on the location of the house. The size of the garden varies from 42 m² to 104 m², and the space is fenced. The interior is organized in such a way that the unique space of the kitchen, dining room and living room on the ground floor, with access to the terrace, while on the upper floor there are rooms. The larger bathroom is upstairs and the toilet is on the ground floor. Each house has one parking space with the possibility of adding more parking spaces.

Special attention is paid to the organization and arrangement of the interior to make the stay in the house as pleasant as possible. The emphasis is on natural light, which is abundant thanks to the large glass surfaces. Contemporary style of decoration with
